

This election vote to protect our fragile ocean

Iconic WA places like Ningaloo-Exmouth Gulf are already being impacted by climate change while facing damaging development.

This federal election, vote for urgent action on climate and nature to save our fragile ocean.

Ningaloo Reef, Feb, 2025: Bleaching due to a marine heatwave caused by climate change.

Image: Brooke Pyke

Saturday, March 29, 2025

The West Australian

Bleaching scars Ningaloo Reef

Local researchers are alarmed about the state of this natural wonder

900 NEWS

Record marine heatwave smashing half of Western Australia's coastline, bleaching coral reefs

By environment reporter Peter de Kruijff

Fri Feb 21,
2025

Authorised by P.Gamblin,
35 Boundary St,
South Brisbane
QLD 4101

Sign the QR.

Let your local candidates know you'll be voting to protect WA's ocean and coast.

marineconservation.org.au

Political decisions made over the next three years will affect the future of WA's coral reefs and incredible coastline.

This federal election, send a clear message to your local candidates that protection of our oceans and coasts must be a high priority.

Learn more about the Australian Marine Conservation Society's Ocean Agenda 2025 that calls for bold leadership to protect our oceans, our climate and our future.

marineconservation.org.au/federal-election-2025

Printed on 100% recycled paper

Our fragile oceans need fearless leaders. This election, we need visionary leadership that prioritises our planet's future, not just the next election cycle. Our oceans and our future depend on it.

AMCS is calling for:

- ★ Stronger nature laws to stop extinctions and restore marine habitats
- ★ Urgent climate action to end offshore oil and gas expansion
- ★ A transition to renewable energy that protects nature.